Period of Recognition	11/1/2007-2/12/2008
Narrative:	I would like to give an award to Duane Hanstein for going above and beyond in creating a Tribal Database. Duane was given the task to organize Tribal information for the geography staff. Therefore, Duane created an Access Database that holds a lot of vaulable Tribal information and is user friendly. He also created a map showing the location of each Tribe that links directly to the internet. Finally, Duane presented the Tribal Database to the geography staff and the regional office staff, in order to train others on how to use the database. I believe his Tribal Database will be very helpful to the geography, regional office, and regional census center staff, and because he went above and beyond in creating it, I feel he deserves this award.

Narrative:	Duane processed a large data file for Washington by adding LCO codes to a large list of tract numbers. This required not only GIS data analysis but also a fair amount of spreadsheet and database manipulation. Duane was able to turn this work around in just one day. His efforts went beyond his regular duties and provided a sorely need solution to a potentially difficult problem. Duane deserves recognition for his efforts.

Period of Recognition	10/1/2009-8/23/2010
Narrative:	Duane is being recognized for his contributions throughout the Denver Regional Census Center. During the year he provided supervision for printing and delivery of all large format mapping programs as well as acting as a point of contact for the LCO's on small format mapping and trouble shooting. His extensive knowledge of Access Databases made him an invaluable resource, as he designed databases for Tribal Partnership and Recruiting to use on a daily basis. He also used his Geographic Information Systems skills to meet program deadlines while working on the Redistricting Data Program, Local Update of Census Addresses and Statistical Areas Programs. We congratulate him on a job well done and we wish him continued success.
